Summary: look into dr. D's thinking

self-destruct button

Now for the most crucial part of my inator the self destruct button. I bet you are wondering why I even need one. Thats a little complicated, but i'll try to explain: see I'm an evil scientist, but I'm not really evil. In reality I'm just a nice abet lonely man. My inators are not really all that dangerous to begin with. When my nemesis perry the platypus drops by for our daily battle I try to hype them up as much as I can though. For example I made an inator that was supposed to make it easier for me to return items to the grocery store, rather than having to drive or walk all the way there. Not only did it return items, but I got my money back too. I do think about the real damage these things can do if they ever fell into the wrong hands was worried that if it ever fell into the wrong hands; so I add a little insurance policy "the self- destruct button". The truth is I don't actually wanna hurt anyone so I something that some might call monumentally stupid to make sure that doesn't happen. Oh look here he comes...
